

H.N. Funkhouser & Co.
Quality Petroleum Since 1932!

Attention Valued Customers:

As the heating oil season approaches, we wanted to remind customers that all residential tanks are owned by the property owner. HN Funkhouser is not responsible for leaks, cracks, rust, unsealed/broken gauges, or any spills that result from faulty equipment. Our drivers will report any issues or concerns they see while filling outside tanks. If they feel the tank is unsafe for the delivery, they may refuse to fill the tank until the issue is corrected. Our drivers cannot see basement tanks; therefore, we are not responsible for malfunctions or incidents involving basement tanks or piping to the tank. We will continue to fill all basement tanks with caution however it is the homeowner's responsibility to maintain the equipment.

HN Funkhouser's Burner Service Dept. can come out to inspect tanks and pipes for any malfunctions or issues as well as perform cleaning and routine maintenance. If you have any questions or concerns about your tank, furnace, or pipes please reach out and schedule a time for service.

We appreciate your business, and we look forward to servicing your Home Heat needs this Season.
